Included is a list of SBA 7a lenders who may be approved to engage in the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loans. The fact that they are approved means that they have the technical capacity to engage in this area of lending. However, it does not obligate them to participation in the PPP program specifically. Some may have other restrictions, for example, they may be lending only to existing relationships. This list is a good starting place as you investigate the PPP program options. Always check with your current lender or existing banking relationship first.
